

Draw and Color an American Desert

The Sonoran Desert of North America is about 100,000 square miles, covering most of the southern half of Arizona, southeastern California, most of the Baja Peninsula, the Gulf of California islands, and a good portion of the Sonora state of Mexico. It is not the driest of deserts and has some distinctive and interesting plant life including saguaro cactus, barrel cactus, mesquite, creosote bush, palo verde, flowering cacti, agave, claret cup cactus, sage brush, brittlebrush, and yucca. Animals found here include: bobcat, desert jackrabbit, kit fox, desert tortoise, elf owl, coyote, gray fox, great horned owl, Gambel's quail, turkey vulture, kangaroo rat, western diamondback rattlesnake, ringtails cactus mouse, chuckwalla lizard, darkling beetle, fringe-toed lizard, and red-tailed hawk.
