

Great Blue Heron Structures and Functions - Matching

Circle the structures that help the great blue heron survive on both its body and the list on the right. Write in any more you can think of in the white space.

Grasp Objects:

Claws/Talons

Paws

Mouth

Beak

Protect Themselves:

Claws/Talons

Teeth

Beak

Shell

Feet/Fins
(swim/hop away)

Wings (fly away)

Move From Place to Places:

Wings

Paws/Feet

Fins

Find Food:

Eyes

Nose

Stay Warm:

Fur

Feathers

Body Fat

LS1.A: Structure and Function All organisms have external parts. Different animals use their body parts in different ways to see, hear, grasp objects, protect themselves, move from place to place, and seek, find, and take in food, water and air.